Campus Pack - Student (Wikis, Blogs, Journals, Podcast)

This document describes how to access Campus Pack and how to use some of the more common tools in the Campus Pack html Editor for Wikis, Blogs, and Journals.

What are the differences between these tools ?
Wikis	A wiki is a collaborative Web site which allows members to edit, delete or modify content using a browser interface. In D2L, wikis can be restricted to members of a group or available to the entire class.
Blogs	Blog is short for "Web log," and is Web space that allows users to publish their thoughts on a particular subject. Within D2L they are usually visible to the entire class, although can be restricted. Viewers can comment.
Journals	Journals are similar to Blogs. However, in D2L they are private and visible only to the individual student and the instructor.
Podcasts	A Podcast is an audio recording that can be played through a browser interface.

3. After entering the Campus Pack wiki (or blog, journal, podcast), use the "+ New Page" (Entry, or Session, etc.) button to create an item, as in this case, a Wiki page.

- 4. Give the page (or entry or session) a title and click "Add Page." (or "new entry", etc.)
- 5. Give the Page or entry a title, then use the HTML editor to enter content for the new page. You can add images and other media by using the HTML Editor media tools. Hover over an icon for a screen tip to see what the tool does. When you are finished, click "Save & Exit."
- 6. If you wish to edit the page/entry later, click the "Edit" button.
- 7. If you wish to delete the page/entry, click the trash can icon on the right within the edit screen.

8. For Wikis, click the "Page" button and then select the page that you wish to view. You can also create navigation among the pages by inserting hyperlinks on the first page of the wiki.

9) If your instructor as enabled comments, just click on the comments title to add your comment.

Using the Campus Pack Editor

This document describes how to use some of the more common tools in the Campus Pack html Editor for Wikis, Blogs, and Journals. Please note, it is unlikely you will maintain formatting when copying text from a MS Word document or other file type containing formatting. Use the Campus Pack html editing tools to create text formatting.

The images below are for reference only. The Campus Pack Editor tools are the same whether you are working in a Wiki, Blog or Journal.

Inserting an Image

- 1. When creating or editing an entry, in the Editor, click the image icon.
- 2. Paste a Web address into the Source field if your image is online, or, click the camera icon to browse to an image saved on your computer. Make sure to add a description and dimensions, then click OK.
